TLT discussed possible in-service dates that would work for all three proposed calendars. We considered three items:

1. teachers' frames for focus, 2. school conflicts, and 3. childcare adjustments for families.

Here is our recommendation:

Two full days before school starts (Day 1 building led, Day 2 planned for PD)

Friday, October 5 Full Day (before Columbus Day holiday gives families a long weekend and is two weeks prior to conferences to give teams time to work with data/interventions, etc.)

Friday, November 2 1/2 Day (We considered Wednesday, Nov. 7, but Wednesday half days are tough on family transportation because of CCD, Pathfinders, etc. after school on Wednesdays. If we don't want a half day on a Friday afternoon, we could recommend November 6 or 8)

Monday, January 21 Full Day (MLK)

Friday, February 15 1/2 Day (leads into day off on President's Day for everybody)

We do not want in-services scheduled during the following months:

September (too many teachers are just getting into a groove after so many weeks of pre-testing and would really be a slow start if we have the later start date)

December (getting close to end of semester--in wrap-up mode rather than start-up mode)

March (would like to break up March but we run into weeks of state mandated testing)

May (end of year data is not yet compiled, so it's better to review the previous year and look at complete data for new students in August. People don't want to work on something new in the final weeks of the year--people who want to learn something new are better served with optional PD activities planned for summer break.)
